

O people, spread the greeting of peace profusely, maintain kinship ties, feed others, and pray at night when people are asleep, you will enter Paradise in peace

'Abdullāh ibn Salām (may Allah be pleased with him) reported: I heard the Messenger of Allah (may Allah's peace and blessings be upon him) say: "O people, spread the greeting of peace profusely, maintain kinship ties, feed others, and pray at night when people are asleep, you will enter Paradise in peace."

[Sahih/Authentic.] [Ibn Maajah]

This Hadīth encourages four noble qualities which, when observed, lead to a peaceful admission to Paradise: spreading the greeting of peace, maintaining kinship ties, feeding others, and praying at night when people are asleep. Among the best deeds is to make the greeting of peace manifest, public, and frequent; to give food to those in need of it, including relatives such as spouses, children, family members; and to pray at night, seeking closeness to Allah through humble submission and supplication, while people are asleep. These acts secure peaceful admission to Paradise and salvation from divine punishment.
